Dear, Gabriel:

The Krell Institute is pleased to renew your Department of Energy Computational Science Graduate Fellowship (DOE CSGF) for the additional twelve-month period of September 1, 2020 to August 31, 2021. All awards and renewals are subject to the continuing availability of funds. Your total fellowship tenure, including this renewal period and all previous and subsequent awards, if any, is limited to a maximum of 48 months. If you plan to complete your fellowship before the end of your appointment, please notify us.

This fellowship, administered by Krell Institute, is being renewed in continuing recognition of your record of academic achievements and in expectation of your graduate study achievements and research in an area related to computational science. You are required to continue an academic program of study and research consistent with the objectives of the program, and to attend the annual fellowship meeting set for this July 12-16, in Arlington, Virginia.

Please read carefully the enclosed 2020-2021 Terms of Appointment and Guidelines and Procedures documents. Note that the DOE CSGF Steering Committee has strengthened language regarding specific fellowship requirements and policies as follows:

- Any change in your POS must be communicated with Krell Institute in advance and approved by the DOE CSGF steering committee before it can be counted toward your POS requirement. Therefore fellows are advised to communicate requests for POS changes as early as possible. Changes not approved before the completion of the course will not be counted toward your POS.
- All teaching assistantships, work/internship positions and workstation purchases must also be approved in advance. Failure to seek approval for any of the above could result in consequences affecting your eligibility for fellowship renewal.

If you wish to accept the renewal appointment and its continuing terms, please sign and return the signed Terms of Appointment Acceptance Form no later than Friday, April 17, 2020. (Please also retain a copy for your files as we will not return the document.)

Congratulations on your DOE CSGF renewal.

Sincerely,
